

Daily Democrat.

TERMS OF DAILY DEMOCRAT TO THE COUNTRY.

One Year	$5.00
Six Months	3.00
Three Months	1.50
One Month	.50

LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

We desire to procure the services of a local agent in every Postoffice District in the State. With our friends, we are prepared to give some efficient person in our behalf. Believing that the circulation of the Democrat may be materially extended, we make this appeal to our friends in their behalf.

It was announced some time ago that success was to be the test of merit in the war, and that a signal failure was to be sufficient to relieve an officer from his command. Let's have the test applied to the Commander-in-Chief. He has made a signal failure, by his own report. He ordered McClellan peremptorily from the James river. The result was the relief of Richmond, which enabled Lee to push his whole army out toward Washington, defeat Pope, drive him back upon Washington, and put the capital in peril. Here McClellan didn't move fast enough. If he had got to Washington in time, he could have extricated Pope from his difficulty. Certainly it does not require a West Point education to see that the way to relieve Pope was to threaten Richmond from Harrison's Landing. No great force would have been spared from Richmond if McClellan had not been withdrawn.

The reflection upon McClellan, that he didn't move fast enough, is needed to make the case of the Commander-in-Chief tolerable. But is it just? We venture that the verdict of the military world will be that McClellan moved as fast as it was possible. He had no motive to be tardy. His judgment was that he should hold his position, and he gives reasons for it that Hallck does not pretend to controvert; but a peremptory order relieved him of the responsibility; and then it was his interest to make all possible haste, and no doubt he did it.

The fact was, that Pope was defeated and driven back to Washington. Such is the result of Halleck's strategy. It was a failure. The enemy, flushed with victory, marches into Maryland. McClellan, at this dark hour, takes command, overtake the victorious enemy, defeats him and drives him back.

In the meantime, one of Halleck's subordinates surrenders Harper's Ferry, and McClellan is to blame for that, when the aid he sent was so near at the time of the disgraceful surrender that the enemy had to neglect the parole of his prisoners and withdraw in haste.

The result is, that this enemy, victorious over the plans of Halleck, is compelled by McClellan to fall back again whence he came—toward Richmond. For this redemption of our failing fortune, the Commander-in-Chief has no word of praise. Not a word. McClellan was at fault. He didn't save Harper's Ferry, whilst one of Halleck's men surrendered before he could get to him, when he ought to have held it. He didn't pursue the enemy in haste. He has not asked McClellan why he did not pursue the enemy he had defeated and driven out of Maryland. Suddenly, however, McClellan is relieved, and what then? The army goes to Fredericksburg, is very accommodating in waiting for the enemy to get ready, and there it is.

Will any military authority say that the army is now on the right road to Richmond? One military genius of the scribbling sort has come to the conclusion that the army of the Potomac is one of defense and observation, and that nothing more should be expected of it. And, indeed, nothing more need be expected of it under the orders of Gen. Halleck. He was at Corinth watching Beauregard when McClellan was advancing on Richmond. Beauregard mysteriously disappeared, right in the face of General Halleck. He slipped off to Richmond with part of his force to fight McClellan. For this exploit, of not seeing Beauregard run away, Halleck is made commander of all creation.

The whole country has seen the result. Halleck's whole report is only an explanation of why he did no better, attempting to lay the blame on other people. Great Generals don't have such excuses. It is their business to see all the possible mischances and provide against them.

Ought not Gen. Halleck to have foreseen that McClellan might not get to Washington in time; that the Rebels at Richmond, seeing that they were relieved from apprehension at that quarter, would make the quickest possible trip to fall on Pope? Ought he not to have foreseen that that was likely to happen that did happen? Is it not plain that if McClellan had remained where he wished to remain, we should have been saved the disasters which followed?

If no reinforcements could be spared to McClellan then, a few weeks would have supplied them, and, in the meantime, no harm could have been done.

Halleck seems to sustain nobody but Pope, who is as great a failure as himself. Now, we want to know if Gen. Halleck has not had his trial, and if it is not time he was laid aside?

It appears from the New York Tribune that one Dr. Barney recently visited Richmond, and, while there, had frequent communication with prominent rebels. Upon his return he brought numerous letters, the purport of which amounted to a peace proposition. They were addressed to Governor Seymour, Fernando Wood, Cox, of Ohio, and others.

The proposition asks a general amnesty for the rebellion.

And proposes to elect Congressmen from the Southern States in April next.

We don't know how reliable this rumor may be, but we notice the "unconditional Union" men are all down on it. Now, here is a plan for the Union. If they are so much in favor of it as to be willing to take the Union unconditionally, can any terms, why do they oppose this plan? It is certainly fair upon their own proposition; but we can now understand that by unconditional Union men, they mean men who will not accept the Union except upon just such conditions as they choose to make.

Wilson, the Abolitionist, sees nothing in the late elections, except that the Republicans had not men enough to fight the battles of the country and carry the elections. So these radicals intend to brave it out and defy the ballot-box.

"When the Gods intend to destroy their first-made man," is an old pagan maxim. The good book says: "I will send them strange delusions, that they may believe a lie and be damned."

A miserable faction have got power accidentally, and are determined to use it; they are now shutting their eyes to the verdict at the ballot-box. Happily the people, under our institutions, have a way to make themselves heard, and they will teach all such fellows as Wilson that they do mean something.

This faction has power at Washington, whilst another has power at Richmond. The people are paying dear for their blunder in trusting either. Constitutional remedies come slow, but they are sure, and Wilson may as well see now that the days of his faction are numbered. They will never be trusted with power again. Their lease is short. The fourth of March next ends the mischief they meditate. They may take the hint from the ballot-box, or, like the Devil, "come in great wrath," knowing their time is short.

FOREIGN INTERVENTION.—We have noticed Gen. Pemberton's speech to his army upon foreign intervention. We now have the same idea uttered with almost savage emphasis from the very capital of the rebel usurpation. In the Richmond Dispatch, of the 27th ult., there is an article (published in the Philadelphia Inquirer) upon the subject of mediation, which terminates with the following remarkable passage:

As far as those Governments which stand aloof from us in our hour of trial, after having by their intrigues brought about the present state of things, we leave them to reap the fruits hereafter of their sinister and inhuman counsels. If we succeed, they can expect no special favors at our hands; if we fail, we shall fall with honor, but our fall will sound the death-knell of their own power upon this Continent, and, perhaps, their stability at home.

"When we hear of an Abolitionist abusing a rebel, it reminds us of a certain green customer, who was a stranger to mirrors, and who stepped into the cabin of one of our fine Western steamers. Stop, ping in front of a large pier-glass, he took for a door, he said:

"I say, Mister, when does this boat start?"

Getting no reply from the dumb reflection before him, he again repeated: "I say, Mister, when does this boat start?"

Incensed at the still silent figure, he broke out—"Go to thunder, you dern ass-sass-crooked, shock-headed half-breed! You don't look like you was much, any more!"

In the same way, when an Abolitionist abuses a rebel, he is but cursing his own counterpart in the Southern States.

A generous gentleman at the recent meeting in New York gave one thousand barrels of flour and $7,000 to the suffering operatives in England, but refused to accept of the honor. He didn't save Harper's Ferry, whilst one of Halleck's men surrendered before he could get to him, when he ought to have held it. He didn't pursue the enemy in haste. He has not asked McClellan why he did not pursue the enemy he had defeated and driven out of Maryland. Suddenly, however, McClellan is relieved, and what then? The army goes to Fredericksburg, is very accommodating in waiting for the enemy to get ready, and there it is.

Will any military authority say that the army is now on the right road to Richmond? One military genius of the scribbling sort has come to the conclusion that the army of the Potomac is one of defense and observation, and that nothing more should be expected of it. And, indeed, nothing more need be expected of it under the orders of Gen. Halleck. He was at Corinth watching Beauregard when McClellan was advancing on Richmond. Beauregard mysteriously disappeared, right in the face of General Halleck. He slipped off to Richmond with part of his force to fight McClellan. For this exploit, of not seeing Beauregard run away, Halleck is made commander of all creation.

The whole country has seen the result. Halleck's whole report is only an explanation of why he did no better, attempting to lay the blame on other people. Great Generals don't have such excuses. It is their business to see all the possible mischances and provide against them.

Ought not Gen. Halleck to have foreseen that McClellan might not get to Washington in time; that the Rebels at Richmond, seeing that they were relieved from apprehension at that quarter, would make the quickest possible trip to fall on Pope? Ought he not to have foreseen that that was likely to happen that did happen? Is it not plain that if McClellan had remained where he wished to remain, we should have been saved the disasters which followed?

If no reinforcements could be spared to McClellan then, a few weeks would have supplied them, and, in the meantime, no harm could have been done.

Halleck seems to sustain nobody but Pope, who is as great a failure as himself. Now, we want to know if Gen. Halleck has not had his trial, and if it is not time he was laid aside?

It appears from the New York Tribune that one Dr. Barney recently visited Richmond, and, while there, had frequent communication with prominent rebels. Upon his return he brought numerous letters, the purport of which amounted to a peace proposition. They were addressed to Governor Seymour, Fernando Wood, Cox, of Ohio, and others.

The proposition asks a general amnesty for the rebellion.

And proposes to elect Congressmen from the Southern States in April next.

We don't know how reliable this rumor may be, but we notice the "unconditional Union" men are all down on it. Now, here is a plan for the Union. If they are so much in favor of it as to be willing to take the Union unconditionally, can any terms, why do they oppose this plan? It is certainly fair upon their own proposition; but we can now understand that by unconditional Union men, they mean men who will not accept the Union except upon just such conditions as they choose to make.

"LITTLE JIM."

This pathetic little poem was recited at the Walnut Street Theater, Philadelphia, some years ago:

The cottage was a thatched one, the outside old and mean;
Yet everything within that cot was wondrous neat and clean.
The night was dark and stormy; the wind was howling loud;
A patient mother watched beside the death-bed of her child.
A little worn-out creature—his once bright eyes grown dim;
It was the mother's wife and child—she called him "Little Jim."
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her life;
For she had all a mother's heart, and that poor mother's wife;
With gentle, trembling hands she held a tea cup to his lips;
And as she gazed upon the child—she felt her heart
As she gazed upon a prayer in thought—she was afraid to speak.
Let me tell you, when she loved her better than her

MISCELLANEOUS.

AN ASSORTMENT OF

FOR LADIES AND MISSES,

At a Reduction of 20 per cent.

AT

S. BARKER & CO.'S

317 Fourth St., Louisville, Ky.

100 pieces New Delaines at 25c;

New Balmainis;

New Shawls, Reys, Coburgs;

Water-proof Cloakings;

Fancy Plain Cloakings;

3-4 and 4-4 Black Velvets;

Hosiery, Gloves, Blankets;

Ladies' and Gents' Underwear.

Also a complete stock of

MORNING GOODS

Of every description. Also a full and complete assortment of

SEWING MACHINES

Of every variety.

S. BARKER & CO.,

317 Fourth St., Louisville, Ky.

TO PLANTERS AND MERCHANTS

AND ALL PURCHASERS OF

Goods at Wholesale.

S. BARKER & CO.'S

317 Fourth St., Louisville, Ky.

S. BARKER & CO. ARE RECEIVING AND OPENING up new styles

Prints of every brand;

Heavy Osnaburgs;

Flannel Linseys;

Kersey;

Rich and Bro. Shirtings;

Table Damasks;

Irish Linens, Diapers;

Toweling;

All kinds Goods for Gents'

Wear, &c., &c.,

Which they offer by the piece or package at lower prices than they can be bought elsewhere.

S. BARKER & CO.,

317 Fourth St., Louisville, Ky.

I. B. SEELEY'S TRUSS

ESTABLISHED 126 CLARK ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

Branch Office—No. 25 North Fifth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

The

Hard Rubber

TRUSS

Sole Proprietor and Manufacturer of the Hard Rubber

Truss, under "Riggs's" and "Goulet's" Patents.

The Hard Rubber Truss is unique and superior to all others in the following respects: It fits the groin, back, chest, and pelvis; it can be made soft or firm; it will cure all kinds of hernia, without the use of the knife, and it is always clean and ready to use.

Patients can be accurately fitted by sending size inches around body in line of trunk.

References as to superiority over others—The following only are offered: Prof. Geo. M. Cannon; and Parkes, in "The Lancet," London, under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

signature of "Dr. J. B. Seeley," under the

AMUSEMENTS.

LOUISVILLE THEATER.

CORNER OF FOURTH AND GREEN STREETS;

ROBT. C. GRIERSON.....Stage Manager

THOS. J. CAREY.....Treasurer

Third night of the celebrated American Tragedian

Mr. E. EDDY.

THIS EVENING, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11th, the performance will commence with the great tragedy of the DEAD HEART—Robert

Laurens, by Mr. E. Eddy, who will be

Song by Alfred Stewart. To conclude with the lively farce of A DAY WELL SPENT on the part of EDDY.

Friday, benefit of Mr. E. EDDY.

The magnificent drama of THALABA is reheated.

Tickets to be had at the following Hotels and Saloons—(Jail House, Louisville Hotel, National

Hotel, United States Hotel, Walker's Exchange,

St. Charles, Grand Palace, Pearl, Phoenix, Arlington, United States Hotel, Walker's Exchange,

Private Boxes 25, 50, 75, 100, 150, 200, 250.

Boxes open 6 1/2 and 7 1/2 o'clock. Seats at 7 1/2 o'clock.

For particulars, see small bills.

Masonic Temple.

GOTTSCALK.

ONE OCCASION ONLY.

THE FIDELITY RESPECTFULLY INFORMED

that MR. GOTTSCALK, the eminent Piano and Composer, will have the honor of giving in the Masonic Temple, on Monday Evening, December 15th, 1892, when he will perform some of his latest compositions which have caused him to be a sensation in New York, and Philadelphia.

Arrangements have been made with the celebrated prima donna, MISS CARLOTTA PATTI,

the principal Star of the Italian Opera, for the Academy of Music of New York and Boston, to appear jointly with Mr. G. Gottschalk, in a grand concert, on Monday Evening, December 15th, at 7 1/2 o'clock. Reserved seats 25 cents extra.

May be secured at D. P. Parker Music Store,

229 Main Street, commencing on Friday at 10 o'clock. Doors open at 7 1/2 o'clock. Concert to commence at 8 o'clock.

A Party

TO BE GIVEN AT THE ODD-FELLOWS' HALL,

Thursday, December 15th, 1892, for the benefit of a poor blind orphan girl. Tickets one dollar.

MANAGERS:

John Shaw, Mr. Love, Mr. Smith, Pres. Messrs. de'dj

Masonic Temple.

FOR ONE WEEK ONLY.

Commencing Monday, December 8th.

Arlington, Leon & Donniker's

MINSTRELS,

FROM 355 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, IN ALL the latest and original style of Minstrelsy, and which challenges the world to compete with them. Doors open at 6 1/2 o'clock, commencing at 7 1/2 o'clock. P. M.

A Grand Matinee, Saturday, Dec. 13, for the benefit of Ladies and Children, commencing at 2 o'clock. Doors open at 1 1/2 o'clock. Admission 25c.

Children 10c. E. S. DINGESS, Agent.

MOZART HALL.

OPEN FOR THE SEASON.

THE EXCELSIOR

Campbell Minstrels.

THIS POPULAR TROUPE OF ARTISTS CONtinues to perform every night.

Doors open at 7 o'clock; performances commence at 7 1/2 o'clock. Children and Servants 25c; Reserved Seats 50c.

HOLT, MANNING & NATHAN,

Managers.

WINTER GOODS.

We have on hand a large assortment of Winter Goods, consisting in part as fol-

Military Goods.

SCOTT, KEEN & CO.,

DEALERS IN

OFFICERS' UNIFORMS, FURNISHING GOODS, HATS, CAPS,

Boots and Shoes, Swords, Belts, Sashes, Revolvers, Trunks,

TRAVELING BAGS, VALISES, HAVERSACKS, &c.,

Southwest Corner of Main and Sixth sts., Louisville Hotel Block,

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY.

PUBLIC SALES.

Special & Very Important Sale

BY L. KAHN & CO.,

404 Main Street.

ON FRIDAY, DEC. 12th, COMMENCING AT 10 o'clock, we will sell the following desirable goods, received or exposed to place at wood closets: 50

assorted Cashmere and Satinette, 1,000 pairs; 50

assorted Black Cottons, 50 pieces; 30

assorted Black Wool, Yellow and White Flannels, 30 pieces; 20 pieces of Black and White

Underwear, together with a large lot of Gents' Underwear, Hose and Hosiery, Suspenders, Comforts, Gloves and Gaiters, Army Shirts, with a fine assortment of Dressing and Bedding. Buyers who attend the sale will surely get bargains.

Terms cash—bankable funds.

L. KAHN & CO., Auctioneers.

BY S. G. HENRY & CO.

AT AUCTION.

15 BBL PRIME N. O. CORN, in 100 bushels, delivered at public sale, on

FRIDAY, DEC. 12th, at 10 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at

the residence of Mr. S. G. Henry, on Main Street, at TELEGRAPHIC.

A Statement by J. W. Green.

A Contradiction.

Latest from Mexico.

Congressional Proceedings.

XXXVIIIth Congress—2d Session.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.

Mr. Rice offered a joint resolution forfending the lands and annuities of the Sioux tribe, and providing for their removal far away from white settlements. Referred.

Mr. Rice also offered a resolution direct-

DRUGGISTS

GLASSWARE, TOBACCO, SNUFF
W., CO., & CO.
Louisville, Ky
GLASS CHEMICAL WORKS.

STOKES,
(W. H. STOKES.)
AND DEALER IN VERY HARDWARE.
(BERRY HARDWARE.)

Between Fifth and Sixth,
LEE, KY.

(AND IT IS THEIR INTIMATE TO EXAMINE distance will be attended to.)

TRANSPORTATION.

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE RAILROAD.

THROUGH TO NASHVILLE.

ON AND AFTER TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 29TH
Passenger and Freight Trains will run through to Nashville, without change of cars.

O. & N. - PASSENGER TRAINS for Louisville, Perrville, Danville, Harrodsburg, Campbell, and Columbia, on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Saturdays.

O. & N. - PASSENGER TRAIN for Bowlinggreen and Nashville, on Mondays, Branch-Franklin and Nashville, on Tuesdays.

THROUGH FREIGHT TRAIN for Nashville at 1:00
P. M., and 12:00 eastern hour.

O. & N. - WAY FREIGHT TRAIN for Bowlinggreen and Nashville, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

O. & N. - FREIGHT TRAINS for Bowlinggreen and Nashville, on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Saturdays.

O. & N. - FREIGHT TRAIN for Bowlinggreen, Branch,
Franklin and Nashville, on Saturdays.

NOTE: Freight for shipment must be in depot by 11:00 A. M.

LOUISVILLE AND FRANKFORT
AND
LEXINGTON AND FRANKFORT

RAILROADS.

ON AND AFTER MONDAY, NOVEMBER 24,
Trains will run daily (Sundays excepted) as follows:

EXPRESS TRAIN will leave Louisville at 5:50 A. M.,
for Lexington, stopping at Louisville, Louisville
Grounds, Race Course, Brokers' and Exchange
Buildings, and at Lexington. It will stop at Lexington at 12:15 P. M. and at Louisville at 6:15 P. M.
It will stop at Louisville at 6:15 P. M. and at Lexington at 12:15 P. M. It will stop at Louisville at 6:15 P. M.
and at Lexington at 12:15 P. M. It will stop at Louisville at 6:15 P. M. and at Lexington at 12:15 P. M. It will stop at Louisville at 6:15 P. M. and at Lexington at 12:15 P. M.

LOCAL TRAIN will leave Louisville at 5:50 A. M.,
for Lexington, stopping at Louisville, Louisville
Grounds, Race Course, Brokers' and Exchange
Buildings, and at Lexington. It will stop at Lexington at 12:15 P. M. and at Louisville at 6:15 P. M.
It will stop at Louisville at 6:15 P. M. and at Lexington
at 12:15 P. M. It will stop at Louisville at 6:15 P. M.
and at Lexington at 12:15 P. M. It will stop at Louisville at 6:15 P. M. and at Lexington at 12:15 P. M. It will stop at Louisville at 6:15 P. M. and at Lexington at 12:15 P. M.

EXPRESS TRAIN leaves Lexington at 2:00 P. M., for Louisville, stopping at Lexington, Lexington
Grounds, Race Course, Brokers' and Exchange
Buildings, and at Louisville. It will stop at Louisville at 6:15 P. M. and at Lexington at 12:15 P. M.
It will stop at Lexington at 12:15 P. M. and at Louisville at 6:15 P. M. It will stop at Lexington at 12:15 P. M. and at Louisville at 6:15 P. M. It will stop at Lexington at 12:15 P. M. and at Louisville at 6:15 P. M. It will stop at Lexington at 12:15 P. M. and at Louisville at 6:15 P. M.

LOCAL TRAINS leave Louisville on Mondays

Problekt is fired and discharged from 7.30 A. M. to 9.0 P. M.

See Through Tickets for Danville, Harrodsburg,
Crab Orchard, Soperet, Richmond, Mt. Sterling and other towns in the interior, for sale, and Persons desiring to purchase, call on J. B. Lusk in Louisville, nearest of Jackson and Brook streets.

1864f SAMUEL GILF, Sup't.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ALBANY AND CHICAGO
RAILROAD,
For St. Louis, Chicago & Detroit

1863. Winter Arrangement. 1863

ON AND AFTER MONDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1863
Passenger trains will leave New Albany, opposite
Louisville, as follows:

1. 6.00 A. M. CHICAGO EXPRESS—Daily except Sunday, and on winter days, leave New Albany at 6.00 A. M.

also at Chicago St., Continental P.R.; connecting lines: A. & W., Great West, Lake Superior, Rock Island, Erie, Great West, Lake Superior with
 A. & W., Erie, Great West, Lake Superior and Michigan
 C. & N. O. Chicago and Detroit.
10:00 P.M.—SULLY, East and West, Express—Daily reaching St. Louis at 6:30 A.M., and Cincinnati 8:00 A.M.—This Train also has direct connection for Chicago and the Northwest.
RETAILING TRAINS—St. Louis at 7:00 A.M., and
 M.K., making immediate connection at Mitchell
 8:00 A.M.—Leave St. Louis at 9:00 A.M.
 at 7:50 P.M. and 3:40 P.M.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS TO ST. LOUIS

 *  BAGGAGE CHECKED THROUGH * * *

 This Road runs the only Trains from Louisville to Chicago via the Mississippi River Route.

For Through Tickets and other Information
 apply at the GENERAL TICKET READ-AD OFFICE, corner of Main and Third Streets, Louisville, Ky.

J. S. PARKER, Agent. A. E. GULVER, Sup't.

JEFFERSONVILLE RAILROAD

[illegible]

MARIETTA AND CINCINNATI

RAILROAD!

TO BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA, AND NEW YORK, via Mailroad to Cincinnati, Marietta and Cincinnati, and Baltimore and Ohio Railroads, and connections.

Through receipts given for Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York, at the above times at the lowest rates, by

W. H. BROWN, Agent,
No. 120 West Market St., over G. R. Patton's Store.

my4-dif

500,000 CIGARS.

M. LEOPOLD & CO.

329 Main st., bet. Third and Fourth,

Cigars and Tobacco

OFFER FOR SALE, AT CHEAPEST RATES, a large and well assorted stock of

Havana and Domestic Cigars

—ALSO—

Seed Leaf and Havana, Kiliuknick and Turkish Smoking, and Fine-cut Chewing Tobacco.

and

Military Clothing.

HAVE IN STORE A CHOICE ASSORTMENT of—

Officers' Dress and Fatigue Suits

Furnishing Goods,
 Purchased expressly for Army Officers. Also a supply for stock of—
Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings,
 For order work. Officers in want of an out fit would find it to their advantage to call.
 A perfect fit is guaranteed in every garment made to order. Prices moderate.
J. L. DEFFEN,
 2nd dist N. E. cor. Fourth & M. Sts.